Rebels Cling To Seria Oil Field

British Step Up Offensive On Borneo

RAF Transports Speeding Assault Troops To Brunei

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP) — Rebels clung tenaciously Monday to Brunei's Seria oil field, focal point of a revolt against British rule in Borneo, in the face of a steadily growing British offensive.

Duncan Sandys, Commonwealth relations and colonial secretary, summarized the situation for the House of Commons in London:

"Order has been re-established in Brunei Town," capital of the British-protected sultanate, "but control of the oil field at Seria has not yet been regained."

Highlanders, Gurkhas, Royal Marines and colonial police joined in efforts to put down the uprising by which Sheik A. M. Axahari, the absentee rebel leader, hopes to weld Brunei and the British crown colonies of North Borneo and Sarawak into a single free nation.

Royal Air Force transports sped assault forces from rain-shrouded Brunei Town on a 45-mile flight to Seria.

Air Field Seized

An airfield near Seria was in government hands. A 200-man combat group was reported to have seized it without a fight from rebels who had dug in there at the outbreak of the revolt Saturday.

Brig. Jack Glennie, British military commander in the North Borneo territories, said a twin attack was under way to recapture the town of Seria.

Colonial authorities hoped for help from pro-British tribal warriors of the interior. Canoe men sped up jungle rivers with sticks bearing red feathers in a traditional appeal for armed assistance of the tribesmen.

May Control Three Towns

Insurgent efforts to spread the revolt in North Borneo and Sarawak were limited, but it was believed rebels were in control of three Sarawak towns.

A force of 700 troops launched the drive to regain the Seria oil field, which turns out most of the annual production of 33 million barrels that is a mainstay of Brunei's economy. Resistance was stiff.

By Sandy's account the rebels—reported here earlier to be armed chiefly with shotguns—were using rifles and automatic weapons. He said their plans seemed to have included a plot to kidnap the Brunei sultan. Sir Omar Ali Saifuddin, and assassinate political personalities in North Borneo and Sarawak.

Rebels Hold Hostages

"Operations have been greatly hampered by rebels holding a number of the staff of the Shell International Oil Co. at Seria," he said. "At one time these were used as a screen to advance on the police station."

A Shell spokesman said a European staff member was known to have been killed and two employees—a Dutchman and an Australian—were wounded.

Man Is Charged In Plane Theft

COLUMBUS (UPI) — Roger Lee Woods, 24, Baltimore, Md., was arrested Monday on a charge of interstate theft of an airplane.

Woods was held in city prison under $7,500 bond in connection with the alleged Dec. 2 theft of a Cessna private plane at Martinsburg, W. Va., and flying it to the Friendship Airport at Baltimore. He also was said to have been wearing the uniform of a U.S. Air Force captain at the time.

The Baltimore man was said to have illegally flown another plane to Baltimore in 1959.

Kennedy Appoints Foreign Aid Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy formed a special committee Tuesday to scrutinize the foreign aid program and determine whether it is achieving the goals set for it.

Kennedy named retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay to head the nine-member group made up of both Democrats and Republicans.

White House sources indicated the President wanted to take a hard look at U.S. military and economic assistance, which has been costing about $4 billion a year, and ascertain whether changes are necessary. One obvious aim was to present a program which will gain congressional and public approval next year.

One White House official acknowledged foreign aid has been growing more difficult to sell to Congress and the public each year.

The group will be known as the Committee To Strengthen the Security of the Free World.

Those named to serve with Clay are former Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett; AFL-CIO President George Meany; Edward S. Mason, Harvard economics professor; Eugene Black, retiring president of the World Bank; Robert B. Anderson, secretary of the Treasury under former President Dwight D. Eisenhower; L. F. McCollum, of Houston, Tex., president of Continental Oil; Herman Phleger, San Francisco attorney and former legal adviser to the State Department; and Clifford Hardin, chancellor of the University of Nebraska.

Wirtz, who was credited with settling a strike a few weeks ago against The New York Daily News, said he will bring the head of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, William E. Simon, with him.

The labor secretary's announcement followed futile peace talks here during the day. The shutdown forced 8 million New Yorkers to scramble to keep abreast of goings on.

"We are farther apart today than we have been," said Bertram A. Powers, leader of 3,000 striking International Typographical Union printers, after a 40-minute meeting with publishers Monday.

Both sides predicted a long strike, thus raising the specter of the 19-day blackout of the same newspapers in December 1958. It too, came at the time of the Christmas rush, when newspaper advertising hits a seasonal peak.

Losses in wages and advertising for four years ago were estimated at $30 million.

The nine struck newspapers normally sell 5½ million papers a day. The strike began Saturday morning.

To Watch Hanging

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (UPI) — State Rep. John Ely Jr., who opposes capital punishment, has requested permission to witness the scheduled hanging of Victor Feguer Jan. 15 at the state penitentiary.

Ely, a Democrat, said he expected the execution to be a highly revolting experience, but I want to see with my own eyes what an execution does to an institution and the people who are there.

W. Va. Begins Studying New '63-'64 Budget

Public Works Board Reviews Requests

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Board of Public Works was told Monday that the West Virginia Centennial Commission may fall $250,000 short of its goal for the 1963 celebration unless the Legislature appropriates additional money.

The disclosure came as the board began three days of hearings to consider budgetary requests for fiscal 1963-64 by state agencies.

Bon Brown, representing the governor's office, said a conservative estimate of the money that will be collected, together with the amount on hand, will fall about $250,000 short of $974,981 needed if all the events that are planned for the centennial are to be staged.

University Request

Also appearing before the board was West Virginia University president Paul A. Miller who sought approval of a $12,186,800 operating budget for fiscal 1963-64. He said that "no longer can there be a great state without a great university."

Miller said WVU, which increased its full-time enrollment from 6,541 to 7,182 this year, would have 13,000 students enrolled by 1970. He asked that the board be prepared to support the school as its only publicly-supported institution of higher learning that is recognized by the national and international collegiate rating system.

The university's budget request is a raise of over 15 percent over the current budget of $10,550,126. State Finance Commissioner Truman E. Gore has recommended a WVU budget of $11,685,100.

Teacher Salaries

Miller said further teacher salary raises are needed if the university is to be able to retain qualified personnel. He pointed out that despite recent salary raises, professors at WVU receive an average of nearly $2,000 less than at other land-grant colleges. On the instructor level, Miller said, the school compares more favorably to other land-grant colleges, but still averages more than $200 less in salaries paid.

Miller added that land acquisition and replacement of existing buildings that he called "dangerous and medieval" must take precedence in the board's thinking. He said the school's medical center was the only division that could be considered to be adequately housed and equipped.

Other Agencies

Among other agencies that appeared before the board were the Commerce Department, Natural Resources, Department of Mines and Board of Probation and Parole.

Natural Resources Director Warden Lane generally accepted the recommendations made by Gore who chopped his requests for the coming fiscal year from $3,535,161 to $1,915,161. The department's budget this year is $1,703,130.

However, Lane asked for money to change the frequency of its two-way radio system. The change must be completed Dec. 31, 1963 Lane said, or the service will be cancelled.

Lane also asked that fire prevention funds be raised from $85,000 to $120,000 to take advantage of 50-50 matching federal funds.

Commerce Commissioner Hulett Smith said his department needed additional personnel in its planning divisions to assist local, county and regional organizations in their economic development programs. Gore sliced $38,000 from the $71,000 increase Smith had requested for more personnel.

Teamsters Cross News Picket Lines

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Members of the Teamsters Union crossed picket lines set up by the striking Cleveland Newspaper Guild Monday at the Plain Dealer and the Press and News. A Guild member charged he was punched in the nose by a Teamster official.

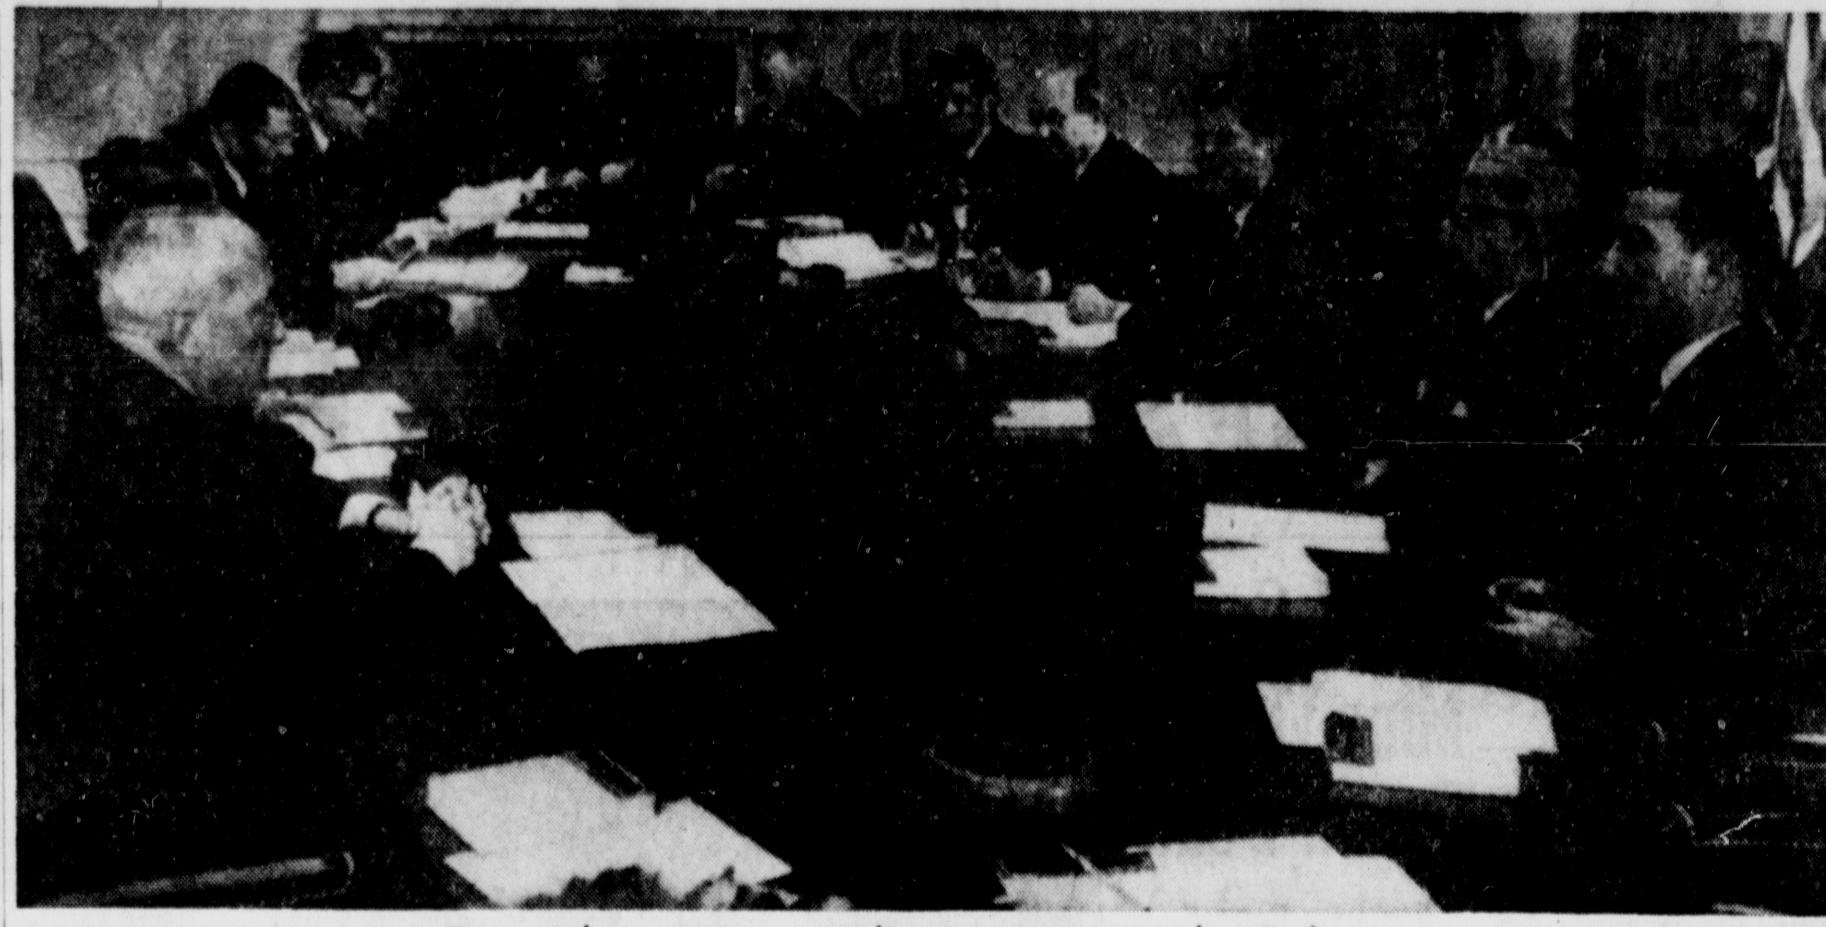

The alleged violence on the picket lines outside the Press building's auto entrance involved Max Riddle, news editor of the Press who was picketing, and Anthony Depalma, business agent of teamsters' newspaper delivery union.

Guild and management negotiators met for five hours in the office of federal Mediator Gilbert Seldin and set another meeting for 4 p.m. Tuesday. A Guild spokesman said there were reports some progress had been made on the job security issue.

A spokesman for the Plain Dealer said no attempt would be made to publish Tuesday's paper under current conditions. He said all employees were called back to work but only drivers responded to the summons. They were sent out to make collections and to deliver gifts to carrier boys.

The spokesman said members of other craft unions were not crossing the Guild picket line.

The teamsters started the walkout Nov. 29. The Guild struck the following day, voting not to cross picket lines of the drivers and not to return to work until its contract was ratified by members.

Top National Guardsmen Confer On Realignment

WASHINGTON (AP)—State National Guard chiefs held an inconclusive discussion Monday of the Army's plan to drop 338 Guard units and revamp four Guard divisions.

The state adjutants general left the closed meeting at the Pentagon tight-lipped. And it was understood they had not yet agreed on any uniform position on the controversial reorganization.

An informed source said the Guard chiefs listened to Secretary of the Army Cyrus R. Vance and Undersecretary Stephen Ailes, but voiced no objections. Some questions were asked about certain details of the plan.

The Defense Department last week announced it was putting in-

The brisk northwest winds which condensed rising vapor clouds from relatively warm lake surfaces also precipitated blinding snows along Lake Erie's south and east rim. The falls measured 6 to 24 inches in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Schools Closed

Schools were closed in West Virginia and eastern Maryland because of snow-glazed roads too slick to travel on hilly terrain.

Maine, usually among the coldest states, shared temperatures early Monday on a par with those in Florida. Caribou had a low reading of 41 degrees—2 degrees warmer than that of St. Petersburg. But Maine, too, turned colder Monday.

Most of the area between the Rockies and the Atlantic had freezing marks during the night except the Florida peninsula and the Gulf Coast fringe. Afternoon readings in the teens were noted as far south as the Ohio Valley.

Cold To Continue

Tuesday morning's prospect was 20 below in parts of North Dakota and Minnesota and zero in Nebraska and Iowa.

The Northwest, especially western Washington, had its peculiar blinding problem of pea-soup fog which cut traffic movement to a creep and raised highway perils,

Space Agency Broadcasts From Mariner 2, Friday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The will be established between Washington and the Jet Propulsion Laboratory at Pasadena, Calif., where signals from Mariner are including broadcast of the radio being received.

Reporters should be able to hear the voice of Jack James, Mariner project director at the laboratory passing on information to Dr. William Pickering, laboratory director, who will be at the Washington news conference.

James is expected to report on such things as how Mariner is closing the distance to nearest approach.

At the moment of fly-by, scientists at the laboratory will feed the radio "voice" of Mariner to the news conference whence it should be heard over television and radio networks.

"The sound," said a NASA spokesman, "should be like other telemetry from space—an indescribable sound, sort of a high-pitched squeak."

Some three or four hours after the fly-by, the space agency hopes to have figures on just how close the space probe came to Venus.

He was 58.

Appalachian Governors Air Economic Progress

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Governors of the Appalachian states were told Monday that the federal government was encouraged by their attempts to rebuild the sagging economy of the area.

William L. Batt Jr., head of the Area Redevelopment Administration (ARA), said the eight states of the region had made judicious use of federal programs, to the tune of $3.7 billion, to alleviate problems caused primarily by heavy unemployment.

But Batt cautioned, in remarks prepared for delivery Tuesday at a staff conference of the Appalachian governors, that "it would be a mistake to expect that programs of the federal government can, in themselves, provide the total solution to local economic problems."

Need Local Effort

He said the success of efforts to beef up local economies would depend ultimately on initiative and programs generated at the local and state levels.

The eight states are Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, Alabama, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Georgia.

"Despite the gravity of this problem," Batt said, "we can sense a new feeling of optimism and a new spirit of endeavor in this (Appalachian) area...this area is taking advantage of the federal tools that are available to help revitalize the economy."

Problems Serious

"...The problems of Appalachia are serious. You need only to look at a map of the area to realize this. Of the 289 counties in the area, 211 are eligible to take part in the area redevelopment program because of chronic unemployment or under employment."

Batt said that in the eight states 670,000 were unemployed—34 percent of all the jobless in all sections of the nation that are covered by ARA and the accelerated public works program. The Congress last summer.

Federal Investments

Federal investments cited by Batt to aid in the economic recovery of the Appalachian region included:

— $41 million under the ARA and the accelerated public works program, with creation of 13,000 jobs directly and indirectly under the former and 40,000 man months of work under the latter.

— $2.6 billion worth of federal contracts.

— Authorization by the Corps of Engineers of $213 million worth of projects.

— $700 million for construction projects by the Engineers, the Soil Conservation Service, Urban Renewal Administration (URA) and Community Facilities Administration.

— Loans and grants totaling $137 million by the URA for planning programs.

Staff members representing the Appalachian governors open a two-day meeting here Tuesday to draft a program of region-wide economic and social progress.

Among the principal speakers will be presidential assistant Brooks Hays, who will address the closing session Wednesday.

A highlight of the conference will be presentation of a report on the Appalachian Region prepared by the Stanford Research Institute under a $25,000 ARA grant.

John Whisman, special assistant to Gov. Bert Combs of Kentucky and chairman of the staff group, will preside. Ohio may also be represented at the gathering.

West Virginia Gov. W. W. Barron, chairman of the Appalachian Governors Conference, will open the meeting with brief address before turning the session over to the staff personnel.

Barron has called on the group to "make the strongest possible effort to pin down a program based on the Stanford report and other suggestions so that we can get moving with the proposals immediately in 1963."

Draft Quota For February Set At 4,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army will draft 4,000 men in February, the same number it has called for January, the Defense Department announced Monday.

Contrary to expectations, draft calls will not rise until March, a Pentagon spokesman said.

On Nov. 26, the Pentagon announced there would be "slightly increased draft calls during the next six months" so that the Army could temporarily increase its strength by 20,000 men to a total of 980,000.

The temporary increase in manpower will be to insure that the Army has trained replacements for the two-year draftees who were called up in the Berlin crisis last fall and will be leaving in the fall of 1963.

The Pentagon spokesman said the decision to increase the Army's size temporarily was made too late to increase draft calls for February and the step-up will begin in March.

With the February levy, Selective Service will have inducted 2,781,450 men into the armed forces since resumption of the draft for the Korean War in September 1950.

The Pentagon said the Army will need 14,600 new men in February, obtaining 4,000 through the draft and the remainder through volunteers.

The February call is 2,000 fewer than December's and the same as that for November and October.

No Recession Forecast In Optimistic Look At '63

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Forecasts for a general economic advance in 1963—and no recession—were aired Monday at a moderately optimistic business outlook conference sponsored by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Autos and capital goods, two major industries which can make or break a business upturn, were said to be headed for 1963 output even higher than their strong 1962 showings.

Home building prospects were described as uncertain because of President Kennedy's order barring discrimination in federally aided housing. Steel output, which has been limping along below 100 million tons for five years, was

Hope Gas Co. To Make Refund

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Power Commission approved Monday a settlement under which Hope Natural Gas Co., Clarksburg, W.Va., will reduce by more than $1 million annually the natural gas rates it is now collecting.

The settlement also provides for Hope to refund about $3,804,100, including interest, to its five utility customers in West Virginia, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York.

Involved were four cases in which Hope was seeking increases totaling $14,512,000 a year. All of the proposed hikes are being collected subject to refund, with the earliest dating back to December 1954.

Hope must file reductions totaling $1,023,000 annually, effective as of last Nov. 1.

The company also agreed to pass on the future refunds it may receive from suppliers as the result of some pending proceedings.

Two W.Va. Boys Facing Charges Of Murder

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Second degree murder charges were filed Monday against two teen-agers in connection with the death of Herbert Floyd Stout, 50, of Bristol, W. Va.

Stout died Saturday of injuries received when he allegedly was beaten and thrown from a moving freight train near here Nov. 11.

Prosecuting attorney John T. Jernigan filed the charges against Ireland J. Vincent, 16, who gave no address, and Edwin L. Drury, 18, of Charleston, W. Va. Jernigan said charges of assault with intent to kill previously filed against the two would be withdrawn.

Police said the boys were arrested on a freight train shortly after Stout was found alongside some railroad tracks.

Charles Thompson, 46, of Fairmont, W. Va., also was thrown from the train but was not seriously injured.

Vincent and Drury have been held in the Puslak County Jail here in lieu of $2,500 bonds since their arrest.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore police patrol car was sent to solitary isolation Monday.

But the skunk left his trail behind and the district police commander decommissioned the car temporarily.

Missing Youth Is Returned Home

FISHING CREEK, Md. (AP)—A 17-year-old Fishing Creek youth, missing overnight on the mouth of the Choptank River, was located Monday afternoon by a Tidewater Fisheries patrol boat.

Officials said Paul Simmons left his home Sunday to go oyster tonging on the Choptank. He spent the night on Jame's Island after darkness caught him on the water.

Simmons started for home Monday morning, but apparently headed the wrong direction toward Tilghman.

A Tidewater Fisheries boat found him near Bar Necks Point.

Congressman Bailey Enters Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey, D-W.Va., is a patient at Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital where his office said he was admitted for a "rest."

The hospital said Bailey was admitted Dec. 8, but referred all queries to his capitol office. An aide there said she did not know Bailey's condition, but that he entered the hospital merely for a rest.

Bailey was a patient at the hospital for about a week following last month's election, which he lost to Rep. Arch Moore, R-W.Va., in a reapportioned congressional district.

"TELEPHONE DIARY"

SHOWS PHONE CALLS

SAVE CATONSVILLE FAMILY

$20.14 IN TWO WEEKS

We recently asked Mrs. Alvin Zumbrun if she would keep track of her family's telephone calls for two weeks—estimating the time, traveling and money, if any, each call saved.

Mrs. Zumbrun's completed "diary" revealed that their phone calls had saved 110 miles of driving around town, 17 hours of valuable time and $20.14.

"We are both surprised and pleased by the results of our diary," says Mrs. Zumbrun. "We do feel, though, that the true value of the telephone cannot be realized fully in terms of dollars and cents. Some of our calls gave peace of mind that just can't be measured... we would never want to be without our phone!"

What would a telephone diary show in your home? Chances are you'd find, too, that your phone gives you back far more than its low monthly cost.

Ann Landers . . .Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is it possible that men go through menopause as women do?

My husband is 50. We have four grown children and seven grandchildren. Our lovely home is paid for, we have no financial worries and this should be, as the poets say, "the time of life for which the first was made."

About two years ago my husband began to get cranky and irritable. He found fault with my cooking, fussed about the way his shirts looked, complained that my hair-do wasn't right. Nothing suited him. During the presidential elections he fought with everyone. He didn't like Kennedy or Nixon and finally voted for his own write-in candidate — Hoot Gibson.

These last few months he has become sullen and withdrawn. He has lost interest in poker, bowling and lodge work. His personality is totally different from what it was three years ago. Can it be the male manopause?

MRS. L. K.: Men do not experience menopause in the same sense that women do. The personality change you describe sometimes occurs in men when they reach their mid-40's or early 50's, which is the corresponding age for "the change" in women.

Your husband should have a complete physical check-up. If nothing is organically wrong, the physician probably will recommend a psychiatrist.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son delivers papers and takes his job seriously. The problem I am writing about is the lack of consideration shown by some of his customers.

Ben's territory includes many apartment buildings. People move out left and right, leaving no forwarding address, and Ben gets stuck with the bill. Maybe they don't realize it's the carrier boy who is left holding the bag.

Then there are always folks who are slow-pay and the boy has to come back two and three times to get his money. This isn't fair. Ben has had to travel many extra miles, doubling back for collections — in all kinds of weather.

I wish you'd remind people, Ann, that the carrier boy is trying to be a good little businessman and he deserves a break. Thank you.

D. L.: The carrier boys

Smog Threatens Umbrella Pines

ROME (AP) — Smog is threatening Rome's famed umbrella pines, tree doctors reported. They said a blight, caused by exhaust fumes forming a resinous coating on the needles, is turning trees brown and killing some. The tree doctors applied sprays and plastic bandages.

Egypt's Great Pyramid and Sphinx have stood guard over the Nile River for 45 centuries. Thousands of slaves labored beneath the broiling sun, hewing and raising stone blocks of 15 tons for King Khufu's towering tomb. A few years later artisans carved the linoleum figure of King Khafra from an outcropping of rock.

The resistance of steel to atmospheric corrosion is improved by the addition of alloying elements such as nickel and copper.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Patti Page does donations for the needy Indians on his former reservation. He will welcome all clothing, shoes, and sewing materials, also toys, for Christmas.

Brother David has been quite sick, but anyone feeling the Christmas spirit, can write to him at the Motion Picture Country House and Hospital, Woodland Hills, Calif. He will gladly send names and addresses of those worthy and needy Indians.

GOP Club Meets Today

The Young Republican Club of Allegany County will meet today at 8 p.m. at the Ali Ghat Shrine Club.

Robert L. Lewis, president, said the meeting was scheduled for Wednesday, but was changed to today.

Following the business meeting, a Christmas party will be held, according to William J. Sullivan, program chairman. All members have been asked by Lewis to bring a prospective member as a guest.

James Smith, membership chairman, has asked all members of his committee to bring their membership cards to the meeting. Refreshments will be served.

Jill St. John, whose dates with the glamor lads had them buzzing in New York, returned to Hollywood, but may be returning to New York immediately, not because of work.

Jill has been offered the starring role in a Broadway show "The Heroine," by Phillip Rose. It's about a call girl (shades of Liz Taylor in "Butterfield 8").

After telling Debbie Reynolds he couldn't join her in Houston until Saturday, Harry Karl pulled a surprise and planned there in according to Joseph A. Minke, time to catch the debut of her regional game warden, who said nightclub act at the Shamrock Hotel opening Thursday night, start today.

South made a seemingly sure loser disappear as if by magic in today's hand by forcing both defenders to win the same trick.

It is difficult to criticize South's jump rebid to four spades; for his holding is worth approximately 20 points and certainly appears to warrant a game commitment in spades when partner responds with one no trump. It will be noted, however, that a five diamond contract is much easier to fulfill and would have been uncovered had South chosen to make a forcing jump shift in diamonds on the second round. In fact, small slam in diamonds hinges merely on a two-two trump break.

Finally, if West threw a club away, South could establish North's small club by cashing the king of clubs, cash the queen of clubs, and allow declarer to score the game fulfilling trick by ruffing the fourth club with his last trump.

West opened the king of clubs. If he ruffed it would eliminate declarer's diamond loser. If West discarded his heart, dummy would play the king of diamonds, cash the queen of clubs, and allow declarer to score the game fulfilling trick by ruffing the fourth club with his last trump.

Area Churches Plan Monthly Song Service

Officers were elected to plan and conduct monthly song services in churches of Allegany County following a song service Sunday at Potomac Park EUB Church.

Rev. William C. Harpold was elected leader; Dusty Shaver, assistant leader and Mrs. Everett W. Culp, secretary-treasurer.

The next song service will be held January 13 at 2:30 p.m. at Zion Methodist Church, Bedford Road.

Rev. George Widmyer, host pastor, led devotions at Sunday's service and Rev. Mr. Harpold conducted the song service.

The program included an anthem by the host church choir; duet by Miss Betsy Fatinik and Miss Martha Lease, Cresapton Methodist trumpet duets by Allan L. Lewis and Robert Swamer, Central Assembly of God; songs by "The Fellowship Four," Emmanuel Methodist of Grantsville Charge, Mt. Savage Methodist choir and Wesley Chapel Methodist Choir, Short Gap.

Vocal and musical numbers were presented by Dusty Shaver, Karen Sue Shaver and Bill Boggs, WCUM; Miss Patty and Dortha Murphy, Central Assembly; Miss Roxanne Hertley, Central Assembly; Rev. and Mrs. Culp, First Methodist and Rev. Mr. Culp, Allan Lewis, Robert Swamer, trumpet and trombone trio.

The four ministers present, Rev. Mr. Culp, Rev. Mr. Widmyer, Rev. Mr. Harpold and Rev. E. Kyle Sawyers, Zion Methodist Church, also sang as a quartet.

Moot Election Is Certified

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)—The election of Republican Charles C. Beneke to the Ohio County Board of Commissioners was formally certified Monday—apparently ending a dispute dating back before the Nov. 6 election.

Democrat Cecil H. Hedrick went along with the certification but issued a statement insisting that Beneke "knows he is an illegal candidate."

Beneke countered with a prepared statement charging Hedrick with issuing "the usual statement of half truths, revealing prejudice and bias."

The dispute arose when Beneke won the Republican primary for an unexpired term on the Board of Commissioners while living in the same magisterial district as Commissioner Hal T. Kain, who was defeated for renomination last May. The statutes provide that two commissioners may not live in the same district.

Kain's successor, Warren Pugh, will not take office until Jan. 1, but Beneke, filling a vacancy, takes over as soon as his election is certified. On that basis, Hedrick claimed Beneke was an illegal candidate.

Two weeks before the election Beneke moved to another magisterial district, but Hedrick claimed this did not alter matters.

Hedrick asked the state attorney general for a ruling but that office declined to intervene. Hedrick, whose consent was required for certification because he and Kain are the only active board members, agreed Monday to second Kain's motion certifying the election results.

That made Beneke the second GOP member and gave control of the three-member board to the Republicans. Pugh, also a Republican, will succeed Kain Jan. 1.

4 Suspects Under Watch In Big Mail Robbery Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four men suspected of taking part in the $1.5-million Plymouth Mass. mail robbery are under constant surveillance in a cat-and-mouse game which federal authorities hope will lead to recovery of the loot.

James F. Kelleher, special assistant to the postmaster general, told newsmen Monday that federal officials have asked all police agencies in Massachusetts to help keep a close check on the four suspects.

"We feel very strongly that these four men are prime suspects," Kelleher said, "and we have been paying considerable attention to them."

Postal officials, who have offered a $50,000 reward for solution of the case, apparently hope to accomplish one or all of three things:

1. Learn what happened to the $5 million.

2. Obtain some clue that might lead to three or four other possible participants.

3. Convince the four prime suspects they will never get a chance to spend any of the money and should turn themselves in.

State Employees Get Yuletide Holidays

Employees of the State of Maryland will have a holiday on Christmas and New Year's eve this year.

Thomas B. Finan, attorney general, said yesterday that Governor J. Millard Tawes has not declared them legal holidays.

Jaycees To Hold Annual Christmas Lighting Contest

The Junior Association of Commerce is completing plans for its annual Christmas lighting contest.

The contest will be open to all residents of Cumberland, LaVale, as far south as the Celanese plant, north on Bedford Road and Valley Road to Peavine Run and east to Christie Road, Williams Road and North Branch.

The contest will be in charge of Roy J. Hartell, chairman and Howard Brode.

Entry blanks may be secured from any member of the Cumberland Jaycees, Mr. Hartell said.

Fluoridation

Mayor Chaney told the jammed City Hall auditorium that certain ground rules would be observed.

He limited speakers, both opponents and proponents, to two minutes each.

Dr. Harold Malin, 418 Washington Street, who said he represented the "Cumberland Pure Water Committee," presented photographs to council showing what he said was the mottling of teeth as the results of fluoridated water. Dr. Malin, leading opponent of the plan here, said in Detroit people are complaining about the "undemocratic" manner in which fluoride was installed in the water there and are asking for a recall by circulating petitions.

Oppose Action

He said he is opposed to fluoridation because it is "mass, compulsory medication." Dr. Malin also pointed out that he, as a chiropractor, would be prosecuted for giving fluoride to his patients. He said harm had occurred to people in Newburgh, N. Y., as the result of fluoridated water.

Malin described "chronic fluoride poisoning" as the reason for harm.

Rev. M. J. King, pastor of First Church of God, Mapleside, also opposed fluoride. He said he felt the action of council an imposition on the citizens of Cumberland and that the question be put to referendum.

"I believe it is poison, rank poison," Rev. Mr. King said, adding, "I believe the people should be trusted (in making the decision) just as you (the council) were in being elected."

Charles Yergan of LaVale, read excerpts from a leading pharmaceutical firm report in which the poisonous qualities of fluoride were described.

Mrs. William Flora, 918 Yale Street, urged a referendum and said she wanted to be respected for her opinion as well as hoping that those who want fluoride will likewise have respect for their opinion.

Opposition Stands

Mrs. Thomas Buser, Eastern Avenue, president of the East Side Homemakers Club, recalled that the plan had been opposed by her group previously and said that opposition still stands. She said if fluoride is wanted, why could it not be given just as medicine?

Scattered applause broke out in the auditorium from time to time and brought a request from Mayor Chaney that demonstrations be stopped so that the hearing could proceed as quickly as possible.

Mrs. G. Frank Malin, Washington Street, asked council if it were willing to accept liability for personal harm to citizens or property and said that as of September, 1961, 174 communities which had fluoridated water have discontinued it.

William P. Roth, RD 1, read excerpts from an article showing antifluoride opinion and cited corrosion of machinery.

Mrs. William Walsh, Mt. View Drive, said she is opposed to fluoridation, that she had moved here from New Hampshire and knows of the situation in Concord where "the people rose up in arms against fluoridation." She too, alleged damage to pipes and said that as a registered nurse "I know it is poison."

J. Fred Myers, Kentucky Avenue; Clarence C. White, 230 Columbia Street, voiced opposition; as did Mrs. Virginia Rosenbaum, editor and publisher of The Allegany Citizen, who said she considered the method which council is pursuing an "infringement" on her rights, and she would "fight it with every means at my command."

Speaking in support of fluoridation project were a number of doctors, dentists and individuals.

The first to speak in favor of the plan was Dr. Jack Arch, who started off by stating a radio talk Sunday in which it was discovered 35 per cent of the children had decayed teeth. He has favored fluoridation since it first was proposed 12 years ago, Dr. Heintz stated.

Also speaking in favor of the plan were Dr. William Fridinger, Rev. S. G. Harrell, Dr. Benjamin Feldman, a chiropractor; Mrs. Robert Lancaster, a dental hygienist; Richard Schwab, Dr. Leeland Ransom and Mrs. Ronald Ross, who described herself as a new resident of the city.

Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, decried the attempts by opponents to submit the plan to a referendum, pointing out that the Mayor and Council approve actions each week that just as directly affect every resident of the city.

A number of out-of-city residents also spoke in favor of fluoridation.

At Heart Meeting

Andrew Siska, left, of Cumberland, community services representative for the Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association, and Mrs. William H. Macy, chapter affairs committee member from Cumberland, chat with Dr. Edward Davens, past president of the Heart Association of Maryland, at a recent state meeting in Baltimore. Dr. G. Overton Himmelwright of Cumberland, president of the Allegany-Garrett association, gave the annual report on activities and a review of the local program to the chapter affairs committee.

vice to the community." Regarding the "poison" angle that had been brought up by opponents, Dr. Hashim said oxygen itself can be poisonous in improper amounts.

Dr. George L. Fogtman, local dentist, said the national and state chiropractic association in 1951 each stated they were not against fluoridation of water supplies. Five years later, however, the organizations used statements out of context in registering opposition to such programs.

John D. May, president of the Junior Association of Commerce, read a statement in support of fluoridation, pointing out that 92 per cent of Maryland is drinking fluoride-treated water. The statement also commended the action of council last week in presenting the proposed program.

Max Heming spoke as a representative of the Western Maryland Section of the American Chemical Society, stating that its membership favored the water additive, and said that in his opinion such action could not be interpreted as "forced medication."

Cites Need

Dr. K. P. Heintz, local dentist, defended himself as the "dad" of the fluoridation proposal, explaining that he and several other dentists conducted a survey of school children's teeth 25 years ago in which it was discovered 35 per cent of the children had decayed teeth. He has favored fluoridation since it first

State Racing Take Higher

BALTIMORE (AP) — State taxes on horse racing are expected to produce $9,735,586 in the fiscal year which ends next June 30, an increase of $1.1 million over previous estimates, Maryland officials reported Monday.

W. Irvin Young, chief of the Bureau of Revenue Estimates, said the main reason for the increase was a rise of $870,650 in revenue expected from harness tracks. Receipts from Laurel Raceway are being reported twice in the same fiscal year because of an oddity in rescheduling.

But revenue is also expected to go up at the mile thoroughbred tracks. Because of experience with meets so far, revenue estimators predicted that daily betting would average $1 million instead of the $950,000 they had figured.

The total state take from mile tracks is now expected to be $6,840,000 for 120 days of racing, instead of the $6,455,000 previously estimated.

State taxes on horse racing produced $8,908,342 in the fiscal year which ended last June 30.

The Cape of Good Hope is generally regarded as Africa's southernmost point. Actually, Cape Agulhas deserves the credit, says the National Geographic Magazine. Parting the waters of Atlantic and Indian Oceans, Agulhas lies 32 miles farther south.

Things Are Better, It Says Here

A new study by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U. S. Department of Labor, if its sampling methods are accurate, indicates the American standard of living took a remarkable upward swing in the last decade. The method of sampling is open to question because of the small number of families interviewed (212 in New York, for example).

The new study is part of a series designed to update the Consumer Price Index next year, and if the present trend continues such items as cost of an evening in the bowling alley might outrank purchases of clothing, when government economists begin comparisons between the relative purchasing power of today's and yesterday's consumers.

Judging by surveys of a cross-section of American families in New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Atlanta, Detroit, Boston and Washington, the purchasing power of the dollar has outdistanced rising costs by between 20 and 40 per cent since 1950.

Better medical care, more recreation and a host of services most consumers could not afford a decade ago are some of the benefits labor researchers have found. The average family is spending about 90 per cent of its income on current consumption — with food, clothing and shelter still accounting for the bulk of the outlay. But these three essentials have dropped from 62 per cent of the family's expenditures to 58 per cent.

Personal insurance, health insurance, homes and gifts are all being purchased in larger quantities by the average family, whose income by the way is now placed between $5,400 and $6,800, after taxes.

All in all, the Labor Department's findings are a pleasant Christmas present, though it is a bit startling to find golf dues rapidly overtaking bread and butter on the consumers' market list.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

What Are Colleges For?

I was going through Lovejoy's "Guidance Digest," the authoritative publication on American colleges, and came across this:

"Could you send me a list of colleges that do not require math as a requirement for a degree while in college?"

C. G. R.
(Guid. Couns., N. Y. high school)

In many cases students are allowed to choose either a math or science course to meet degree requirements. The following colleges do not specifically have a math requirement for the undergraduate degree: Adelphi Coll., Bethany Coll. (W. Va.), Boston Univ., Centre Coll. of Kentucky, Colorado Coll., Georgetown Coll. (Ky.), Iowa Wesleyan Coll., Adrian Coll., Allegheny, and Ball State Teachers Coll."

It came to me to wonder why this student wanted a college that required no math. Had he failed in math? I know a boy who is a brilliant scientific student but who had to take his calculus examination three times before he got it well. Now he can teach calculus.

Education is not how little you can get away with but how much knowledge and universal experience you can accumulate. Mathematics is essential. All science uses mathematics for measurement, calculation and computation. Without a basic knowledge of mathematics, how can one know physics or chemistry or even measure an iambic pentameter?

The guidance counselor of that New York high school really ought to ask his student to go back and study some math before his arteries get too hard to study anything. How much literature does this student know? What languages has he studied? Why does he want to go to college at all? Or is it a trade school?

For instance, in the same issue of Lovejoy's guide, I find a letter which asks:

"One of my counselees is interested in a college which has a good wrestling team and which could offer some financial aid to an excellent, lightweight wrestler. He is not a top student but maintains about a 75% average. He plans to major in physical education. Please send me the names of colleges we might investigate."

This raises the question of the athletic scholarship which is a public relations gambit and is in no manner related to education. Physical education is a misnomer because education has to do with the mind and not with muscles. If we require muscular fellows, there should be special places for that purpose, principally gymnasiums. A college should exist for the cultivation of the mind. Wrestling does not cultivate the mind.

Instead of looking for an athletic scholarship, that student should be told to push his marks up and get into a good school.

Like Lovejoy answers him:
"Most colleges these days do not offer grants to athletes for athletic skill alone but you may want to contact the following colleges which are among those which have a physical education major and a wrestling team: (Pennsylvania State Coll. (at E. Stroudsburg, Lock Haven, Slippery Rock, West Chester), Marshall Coll., Kent State Univ., Ball State Teachers Coll., Bowling Green State Univ.)"

As much as I dislike the expansion of the Federal Government into education, I nevertheless am sure that the day must come when a degree again has some specific value. A degree, B.A. or B.S., often means nothing and when one talks to the person who bears such a degree and even wears a Phi Beta Kappa key, he might be floored by the ignorance of ordinary things. One who said that he had a familiarity with American history did not know Colonel House or James Madison or who wrote the Monroe Doctrine, it, of course, not being President Monroe. How little knowledge does one need to get by?

For those to whom ignorance is bliss, the college ought to be no place. The cost of maintenance is so great that there must be a screening of students so that college funds are not consumed by students who cannot pass unless the standards are so low that my dog, Joe, could get by. There are apparently such places and it would benefit society if they were shut down and their funds sent to schools which maintain high standards for admission and for graduation.

Some colleges, seeking an excuse for admitting the less literate, use such yardsticks as civic interest, leadership potential, character, honesty and motivation — a maze of subjective considerations which prove nothing. The yardstick of a classroom is the degree of passing or failure in academic subjects.

Tie That Doesn't Bind

Cuba Crisis: Moment Of Truth For Both Sides

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON According to reliable report, President Kennedy's meeting with wily old Anastas Mikoyan was far more interesting than it was made to appear at the time.

What Mikoyan wanted was some form of public pledge by the President that the United States would not invade Cuba. This was supposed to "wind up" the Cuban gamble.

As the world knows, Mikoyan had nothing to offer the President in the way of the on-site inspection and verification in Cuba which was such an important item in the Khrushchev-Kennedy bargain. Nonetheless, he rather more than insinuated that the President would be guilty of bad faith, if he refused to issue the desired "no invasion" pledge.

This gave the President the opening, for which he had no doubt been hoping, to say, "You're another" with great vigor and vivacity. And the President not only pointed out with some asperity that the Soviet side of the Cuban bargain had not been fulfilled. He also reminded Mikoyan that in Laos had been flagrantly breached by the continuing non-withdrawal of the North Vietnamese Communist troops from Laotian territory.

While on the subject of Soviet bad faith, the President also referred to Mikoyan the ugliest feature of the whole Cuban affair. This was the lying personal message that the Soviets would never put into Cuba "weapons capable of reaching American targets," which Khrushchev and Mikoyan sent to the President through Georgi Bolchakov, a subordinate officer of the Soviet embassy here.

To this, Mikoyan replied with blarneying impudence so great that one must almost admire it. Several years ago the fire department of LaVale tried to get a fire tax levied on the people of District 29 taxing area but were defeated by a three-to-one vote by the residents of the area. If they want a paid fire department why don't they say so? At the rate they are asking (10 cents on the assessable hundred dollars) that would be as much as we are paying on a so-called sanitation tax. A report has it that LaVale has an assessable value of over $14 million and even one cent on the hundred dollars would run into a lot of money. There must be something wrong with LaVale, for, take Midland, Lonaconing, Shaft and all other volunteer fire departments—they don't have to impose a tax on the people to get Khrushchev and he, so he swore up and down, really, truly did not regard the strategic missiles that were put into Cuba as offensive in character. Their purpose, he said privately, was solely defensive.

As for not having been quite frank about them with the Kremlin, Khrushchev feared that the presence of these innocent defensive weapons in Cuba might be misinterpreted and distorted, in the heat of the American Congressional elections. So Khrushchev had tried to keep the missiles a secret until the election was over, when he had meant to tell the President all about them right away.

It can be seen, then why the Kennedy-Mikoyan conversation was not immediately fruitful. Yet it is thought to have borne some fruit, nonetheless, of a slower-ripening kind.

It is thought, in other words, to have helped to drive home to the Kremlin that the U.S. government is no longer willing to accept the long-prevailing double standard of international behavior. This is the odd, but widespread viewpoint which tolerates all kinds of Soviet actions that would universally be regarded as totally intolerable if they were American actions.

The elimination of the double standard is the obviously essential preliminary to any kind of useful negotiations with the Kremlin.

Berlin, nuclear tests and all the other outstanding problems cannot any longer be discussed on the familiar basis of: "What's mine is mine, and now let's have a jolly chat about what's yours."

On the other hand, if the Kremlin is at last ready for equal negotiations, the Kennedy policymakers are convinced that negotiations will be desirable. There has even been some discussion of a quiet, personal approach to Khrushchev by the President, which would have the effect of testing the climate and perhaps opening the way for talks.

The Soviet posture is being continuously altered, meanwhile, by the ever-deepening split between Moscow and Peking. The Chinese are still observing the convention of calling Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia a "traitor" when they really mean Khrushchev, just as the Soviets still speak of the vile Alabians when they mean the vile Chinese. But the language now being used is downright frenzied.

The split has certainly reached a point, in fact, at which the Soviets no longer give any weight at all to Chinese objections to East-West talks. Certain signs also suggest that the Kremlin is smoothing away existing obstacles to talks.

A most striking sign was the recent conciliatory speech by the East German Communist boss, Walter Ulbricht, with its novel emphasis on the need for "compromises" by both sides in their approach to the Berlin problem. In short, it will not be very surprising if the moment of truth which both sides have experienced, leads on this winter to an attempt to do business with one another on a sensibly realistic basis.

Letters To The Editor

Sir:

Several years ago the fire department of LaVale tried to get a fire tax levied on the people of District 29 taxing area but were defeated by a three-to-one vote by the residents of the area. If they want a paid fire department why don't they say so? At the rate they are asking (10 cents on the assessable hundred dollars) that would be as much as we are paying on a so-called sanitation tax. A report has it that LaVale has an assessable value of over $14 million and even one cent on the hundred dollars would run into a lot of money. There must be something wrong with LaVale, for, take Midland, Lonaconing, Shaft and all other volunteer fire departments—they don't have to impose a tax on the people to get what they want. They have modern machinery and it seems that when they want something else they go and get it. We are paying a sanitation tax, front footage tax, and besides the fire tax they are asking for, they also want a tax to pay for a street lighting system. Pretty soon our taxes for District 29 are going to exceed our state and county taxes, if they get all the taxes they are asking for.

So I suggest that instead of either of the two alternatives, one, passage of legislation by the delegation, or petitions of names by letters or cards to the delegation, another vote be taken so everyone can see what the results are.

Most Tennis Elbow Victims Are Not Athletes

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Movement of the outer side often follows grasping an object or twisting the forearm, especially with the elbow extended. Chronic handshaking, as done by public figures, may be responsible for this type of sore elbow.

In such instances, there is irritation of the tissues in and about the joints. A bursa in this area also may be involved. Discomfort may be so mild it is noted only when performing certain maneuvers, or so severe the arm must be carried in a sling.

In one test for the disorder, the individual picks up a large telephone directory. If he keeps the palm upward and the fingers below the book, he can lift it with comfort. But when the palm is downward and the thumb bears the weight, pain is severe. In others, discomfort is more noticeable in the region of the crazy bone, especially when making a fist.

The disorder usually is traceable to the muscles that flex and extend the wrist. The upper attachment of these muscles to the outer and inner sides of the elbow are pulled away or strained. Regardless of the structures involved, the individual must avoid the activities that cause epicondylitis until relief occurs.

It is helpful to apply heat via diathermy, whirlpool bath, or chemical or electric pads. Dramatic results often follow injection into the painful area of a long acting local anesthetic plus a corticosteroid hormone. One or more treatments may be needed before permanent relief ensues.

West Virginia Legislature Opens Jan. 9

Caucus Is Held By Democrats

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The leadership of the 56th Legislature which convenes here Jan. 9 will look almost exactly like that of the past session.

Presiding officers and their subordinates were renominated without opposition Monday for new terms at Democratic party caucuses, while Republican lawmakers chose their old minority leaders for new terms at separate meetings.

In the Senate it will be President Howard W. Carson, Fayetteville, Clerk J. Howard Myers, Martinsburg, and Minority Leader John E. Carrigan, Moundsville.

The House lineup will again have Julius W. Singleton Jr. of Morgantown as speaker, C. A. Blankenship of Pineville as clerk and George W. Seibert Jr. of Wheeling as minority leader.

Renominated for minor posts were House sergeant-at-arms Don Yoak, Spencer, and doorkeeper Earl Brawley, Charleston, and Senate sergeant-at-arms John Howell, Charleston. Guy Douglas of Lookout was elected Senate doorkeeper succeeding Paul Babich, Beckley, who did not seek re-election.

All of the Democratic nominations will be formally ratified when the Legislature convenes for a 60-day regular session Jan. 9. Carrigan and Seibert will oppose Carson and Singleton for presiding offices and will become minority floor leaders following the routine party-line vote.

The party lineups will be 23-9 in the Senate and 74-26 in the House, compared with 25-7 and 72-18 majorities held by the Democrats for the past two years.

Singleton announced after the caucus that he planned to reappoint W. T. Brotherton Jr. as majority floor leader and Ivor F. Bojarsky as head of the key Finance Committee. Both are from Charleston.

The speaker said H. Laban White, Clarksburg, would be re-appointed Judiciary chairman and J. E. (Ned) Watson of Fairmont majority whip.

Singleton said he expected to have the remainder of the committee appointments firmed up by the end of this month.

20-Year Roads Study Outlined

Growth, Money, Highway Needs To Be Probed

A study of the needs of highways in Maryland during the next 20 years was discussed yesterday afternoon at the Court House by representatives of the State Roads Commission, who met with local and county officials including members of the delegation to the General Assembly.

Wilson T. Ballard, consulting engineer working with the SRC, pointed out that the needs study compiled by the SRC with assistance from county and local engineers was requested by the 1962 General Assembly in Joint Senate Resolution 13 passed last February.

The plan, he said, would be subject to periodic review for adjustments in order to give succeeding legislature members an up-to-date, clear picture of the roads situation.

The study has been sorely needed for a long time, according to Mr. Ballard, who said a well-coordinated program has been prepared for presentation to the General Assembly when it meets early next year.

Thorough Study Made

Thoroughly examined was the entire roads system from major arteries to the level of primary and secondary roads in counties and in the 159 cities and municipalities of the state.

Working teams made a complete study of engineering, planning, fiscal study as well as functional classification of the highways in the "best interest of the state."

Taken into consideration was the anticipated economic growth of the state during the next two decades, an important phase of the study.

The fiscal study, which is almost complete, will determine all possible sources of revenue for the construction, maintenance and operation of roads. Also taken into consideration is how the revenue should be distributed to the state, counties and municipalities.

Referring to Allegany County, Mr. Ballard said that between 1960 and 1961 motor vehicle registration figures are expected to increase about 50 per cent. From 1949 to 1959 there was a 61 per cent increase, he said.

Industry And Tourists

The transportation system in Cumberland and the county must be well-maintained in order that new industry may develop, and also for the tourist trade, which is big business."

Maryland's highway problems are out of proportion to its size, according to Mr. Ballard, who mentioned that the state lies across two transportation corridors including busy highways from New England to the South and also U. S. Route 40, east-west.

In the study, he said, separate manuals have been prepared for the state needs, county and local needs.

G. Bates Chaires, state maintenance engineer, presided at the meeting yesterday.

Among those in attendance were Senator-elect George R. Hughes Jr., members of the delegation, county commissioners, Mayor Earl D. Chaney, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, city commissioner; Charles G. Nuzum, city engineer; Robert C. Petersen, Chamber of Commerce manager; Everett Partridge, Upper Potomac Industrial Development Commission; C. Lee Renaud, county planner; John L. Towler of the Route 40 Association; labor officials and representatives of communities of the county.

Woman Injured In 2-Car Crash

Miss Carol Ann Hordeman, 17, of DeHaven Road, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday with injuries sustained in a two-vehicle collision at the intersection of Smallwood and Fayette streets, police said.

Attaches at the hospital said Miss Hordeman was admitted for X-rays and had sustained contusions on her knees. Her condition is "satisfactory."

Cpl. Oliver Cook said Miss Hordeman was driving a small foreign car east on Fayette Street when the car collided with a taxi traveling north on Smallwood Street.

The cab driver, Raymond L. Bryant, 504 Pulaski Street, was charged with failure to yield the right of way, said Cpl. Cook, who investigated the accident at 3:20 p.m.

Miss Hordeman was taken to the hospital in an ambulance.

Retirement Club To Meet Tonight

The Senior Citizens Retirement Club will meet tonight at 7 o'clock on the second floor of the Odd Fellows hall, Virginia Avenue.

All members are requested to be present and all retired men and women are invited to join the club.

Critical Needs In Allegany Co. To Be Reviewed

Critical needs of highways in Allegany County and maintenance costs for the roads during the next 20 years were outlined yesterday at the Court House by representatives of the State Roads Commission during a meeting with local and county officials.

The facts and figures were drawn from a needs study requested by the 1962 General Assembly and compiled by the SRC with an assist from county and local engineers.

Mrs. Marion McCoy, coordinator of the planning division, used a large map of Maryland and a map of Allegany County to explain the road work included in the 20-year study.

U. S. 40 "Lifeline"

New construction and reconstruction and resurfacing of U.S. Route 40, the lifeline of the area, should be given first consideration, according to Mrs. McCoy, who explained the projects would be realized if the money is allocated by the General Assembly.

The population increase and industrial concentration along U. S. Route 220, has necessitated an ultimate divided highway along that main artery, she said.

A need for dualization of Maryland Route 135 was cited as a result of a sound engineering study. She also said "something needs to be done" on Maryland 36 along Georges Creek where a good 24-foot lane should be provided.

In view of the industrial concentration, there is need for dual highway with 24-foot lanes on Maryland Route 51 and 28.

Charles F. McCormack, engineering consultant for Alan M. Voorhees and Associates, pointed out that the natural question at this time is "Yes, but how much?"

Costs Explained

He gave an explanation with the use of financial figures showing current annual expenditures for construction and maintenance of state, county and municipal roads and the anticipated costs during the next 20 years.

He pointed out that in Allegany County the current annual expenditure is about $472,724 and an annual average over the next two decades would be $1,313,000, a deficit of $841,072. He also cited state and municipal road expenditures.

G. Bates Chaires, state maintenance engineer, reported that additional money is needed for desired maintenance of roads.

He outlined the cost of maintenance of a basic mile for a 20-foot-wide road in the county and 24-foot-wide state and municipality roads.

Yesterday morning the SRC officials met with Garrett County officials on the needs study, and today they will be in Washington and Frederick counties.

Players Plan Tryouts

Tryouts for the next Algonquin Players production, "The Pleasure of His Company," will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday December 12 and 13, at City Hall auditorium.

The show, a two-act play written by Samuel Taylor with Cornelia Otis Skinner, is described as a "rueful comedy." Season tickets for Players productions may be obtained from any member.

The December meeting will be a dinner session December 27 at Ali Ghan Shrine Club. Mrs. Amy Slough is general chairman, and Mrs. Beda Mae Riley is entertainment chairman.

Bob Bonice, director of the Players' most recent production, "The Moon is Blue," thanked all participating at a recent meeting, at which Bob Roberts gave house committee and property committee reports.

The attempt to forecast state revenue 18 months in advance and prefer to err on the side of conservatism if their guesses are wrong.

Next Year Not So Bright

Although revising sharply the estimates they made last December, they predicted that state tax collections for the year will still not quite come up to spending. The revised estimates of general fund tax collections is $267,122,840, some $5 million shy of appropriations.

The increases were chiefly accounted for by the income tax on individuals, which is now expected to produce $6.3 million more than originally forecast, and the sales tax, which is expected to yield $4.4 million more than originally estimated.

Rennie said total state spending for next year, including special funds from gasoline taxes and other earmarked revenue and federal aid to the state, will edge up near the $600 million mark.

It was $555 million for the current fiscal year.

The general fund portion of this is the budget category the governor, legislature and taxpayer are most concerned about. It covers general state operations and is financed from such general taxes as those on sales and income.
